What Stalin Wants

If you were Joe Stalin and wanted to conquer the United States and thus have mastery over all the world, your first primary interest would have to be this nation's industrial production. It would be impossible to defeat America while her full industrial might is in action. Joe Stalin knows this. He and his partners and the Communist fifth column in America are working now in every conceivable way to cripple American industry. They are a direct war through attacking the backbone of the American people, the industrial workers, by depriving them of their jobs, by depriving them of their wages, by depriving them of their homes, by depriving them of their food, by depriving them of their clothing, by depriving them of their medicine, by depriving them of their education, by depriving them of their culture, by depriving them of their religion, by depriving them of their freedom, by depriving them of their rights, by depriving them of their lives.

If the communists could enslave a great state tomorrow and keep it under their iron heel for a year or two, they would have won the first battle of the cold war. The first battle would mean the end of the American way of life and the beginning of the Russian way of life. The first battle would mean the end of the American dream and the beginning of the Russian nightmare. The first battle would mean the end of the American future and the beginning of the Russian past.

Today's strategy is to keep the American people from seeing the danger. The American people must be kept from seeing the danger of the communists. The American people must be kept from seeing the danger of the communists. The American people must be kept from seeing the danger of the communists.

The first drive in "Register and Vote" is a real concern for the lack of interest of the average American in his own government. A free secret ballot, a right to vote in the privacy of his own home, a right to vote in the privacy of his own home, a right to vote in the privacy of his own home.

One of the reasons given for the recent New Hampshire primary being "unconventional" and why many politicians have derided it is that the election was held on a Tuesday. The election was held on a Tuesday, the day when most Americans are at work.

HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE

Adopt Cheerful Mental Attitude

IT WAS NEARLY 20 years ago that Charles E. Frideaux, Morristown, N.J., was told by his physician that he had contracted pulmonary tuberculosis. Worried? He most certainly was. His knowledge of the disease made him feel that his days were numbered and that the number was not high.

He went to Saranac Lake, N.Y., and was placed under the care of the late Dr. Lawson Brown, one of the world's authorities on this disease, who told him that he must completely relax and not worry. Not worry? Well, Dr. Brown didn't have pulmonary tuberculosis!

During the next few months his progress was very slow. But it was progress. That was something. One day he was handed a book written by Dr. Brown on how to recover from tuberculosis. This little volume did more for him than all the preaching in the world could have done, for he read it when he was alone and had the time to think about what he was reading.

In the main the book brought out clearly that indulging in worry, hatred, or any other emotional disturbance lessened one's chance of recovery; that absence of worry and a cheerful mental attitude hastened recovery.

Well, worry had certainly not helped him; he made up his mind to try the opposite of worry.

For the next nine months he lay in bed with a bag containing 15 pounds of buckshot in his right lung. And he didn't allow himself to dwell on anything unpleasant. At the end of this period, he showed remarkable improvement.

Two years later he was back at work, and since that time he has not had an illness beyond the common cold. But what is of equal importance, he has carried a cheerful mental attitude into his work-a-day life. He has a job of great responsibility and hard work, but although it is such that he must carry some of the responsibility home with him at night, he doesn't worry about it, but looks upon his task pleasantly, and when he is finished puts it out of mind and goes to bed.

What a contrast to the way he had been living two years before.

Economic Highlights

happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

On the old saying has it, one cannot make a summer of it, the same holds true in the economic life of the nation. The economic situation in New Hampshire is a complex one, and it is one that cannot be ignored. The economic situation in New Hampshire is a complex one, and it is one that cannot be ignored.

THIS IN WASHINGTON

THREE BIG DRIVES are scheduled to get underway within the next few weeks and the American people will be flooded with propaganda and publicity on the three objectives of the drives as follows:

First, the political organizations of both the Democratic and Republican national committees will start their campaigns to "register and vote." Second, certain segments of business and industry, spearheaded by the livestock breeders association, the farm belt livestock feeders association and the American meat institute and other large food groups, will start an all-out campaign to bid price controls and price stabilization. Third, other large industrial groups headed by such organizations as the American medical association and the electric light and power industries will conduct a drive against the Truman administration on the theory that the welfare reform of the past 20 years are "socialistic."

ideas from other editors

SO FEW WEEKLY newspapers commented editorially on the New Hampshire primary in their Thursday and Friday editions following the election it has been difficult to obtain a cross section of rural thinking on the subject. Perhaps the country editors didn't have time to write their editorials, or it could be they wanted a little more time to digest the results. Whatever the reason, the comments were few and far between.

Two papers, however, in widely separated sections of the nation, had this to say:

Houlton Pioneer Times, Houlton, Maine: "How you like the result of the voting in the nation's first presidential primary, held Tuesday in New Hampshire, probably depends on whom you are supporting."

"To the supporters of Gen. Eisenhower, his clean sweep of the entire 14 delegates and his four-to-three victory in the popularity balloting is taken as a significant sign that greatly enhances their candidate's chances and will certainly put their campaign into high gear."

"It is a little bit difficult to accept Taft's very comment that he had hoped to do better and Brewster's observation that it was the Republican machine that beat his man in New Hampshire. Regardless of who administered the shellacking, it was done in the face of one of the most spirited campaigns ever seen in a primary election in the Granite State and Mr. Taft certainly did everything within his power to win."

"The folks like Ike and they expressed their preference in no uncertain terms in the first presidential primary in the nation. The result in New Hampshire that pleased folks of goodwill most was the defeat of Truman by Senator Kefauver. President Truman said a few weeks ago that presidential primaries are 'a waste' but it looks now like the little man from Missouri will have trouble washing the tall Tennesseean out of his hair."

Resolutions of Respect, $1.00.

The LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Now, today, with the ink just about dry on your last check in favor of the Tax-man—paying up the last installment on 1951—is a good time to rub some salt in the wounds of the nice people of the land as they forget the late unpleasantness. Something has gotta be done or March 15, 1952—one year hence—will be even more painful. And in between times the County and the State and your own Town will be looking you over with a sharp eye to see if there is a nickle or dime's worth of excess fat on your bones that could be whittled off.

What is next, is not easy to do. But one thing—sure as the little apples are in the bottom of the barrel—there are more proposed tax novelties in the offing, like a service charge for the use of a sewage system, which is yours in the first place—you paid for it. Our need today in a citizens committee. It could call upon the Mayor, the County officers, the Governor—lay down the law. Then, in due course, if nothing happened, and expenses continued to soar, take a leaf from the book of the old "vigilantes"—let the committee chairman carry a rope in the crook of his elbow.

And after a little local practice, the Committee could with rope still in hand, take off for that loose and free spending Capital of this, our once thrifty land, or we will wake up a gone-gosling.

Yours with the low down, JO SERRA

He jokes and laughs and slaps his knee. And drives in a way to endanger. This "jargon" I'm sure you'll all agree.

Would make a wonderful stranger. We always have time enough, if we but use it aright.

DO YOUR CLEANING easily and in comfort if you want to avoid accidents as well as muscle strain. A dress that's comfortable, or a pair of slacks and skirt are a good outfit for cleaning, especially when you can move freely, with shoulder room. Long housecoats are out, for you might slip on them.

Take time out to get a stepladder when you're cleaning windows or shelves, instead of using a rickety chair. When you're lifting or carrying, plant the feet firmly on the floor and bend the knees to do any picking up. Straighten the knees gradually to prevent lifting entirely with the back.

When you're removing magazines, papers and other items, do carry a basket so that one trip will save several. Use a basket, also, for cleaning supplies.

RECIPES OF THE WEEK Peaches in Orange Sauce Serves 6-8

1 No. 2 1/2 can peach halves or slices
1 cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
Dash of salt
1/4 cup orange juice
3 whole cloves

Drain peaches, reserve juice and measure 1/4 cup. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Stir in 1/4 cup peach juice and orange juice. Add spices. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add peaches and simmer 5 minutes. Cool. Serve with plain or whipped cream, or use as a pudding sauce.

Small wagons are ideal for carrying out many items such as several waste baskets. In this way you can make one wagon trip to save several others, and also avoid lifting.

Plan your work so that something can be started while you do other tasks. For example, let the clothes contain soak in the tub while you clean the machine, dust, bowl or change towels.

Another example for cleaning clothes is to strip your bed and let it air while you wash windows, dust blinds or pick up the room and closet. After this is done, finish the bed.

TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, April 3

Walk in love, as Christ has also loved us, and hath given himself for us. (Ephesians 5:2) Read I Corinthians, Chapter 13.

SINCE God is love, Christ came to reveal God to us as the God of love. The follower of Christ increases his resemblance to God and to the Christ of God as he increases his capacity for living while walking in love. It is said, "The greatest thing a man can do for his heavenly Father is to be kind to one of His other sons." In that way we walk and live in love.

This world is begging for torrents of love. It is in need of Christians who do not have so many creeds, but who know how to love, greatly; of Christians who do not take so much pride in their perfect organizations, but who are filled with the eternal love of God. "To love abundantly," says Henry Drummond, "is to live abundantly." To deny love is to deny the spirit of Christ. Paul insists: "Walk in love."

Prayer
O God of love, we pray Thy forgiveness because we have not loved so much as Thou wouldst have us love. We pray that Thou wilt fill us with Thy Holy Spirit and awaken within us an intense, abiding love for Thee. Help us to walk in love among our neighbors. We pray in our Saviour's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day
Do others behold in me a Christ-like love?
—Francisco E. Estrella (Mexico)

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Arlington, Wash., Times: "The county treasurer's office . . . is crowded with citizens checking up and paying taxes. Mrs. Smith Makes Monthly Report

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith

The two legislative highlights of the past month in the Senate were the votes on (1) the reorganization plan to take tax collectors out of politics and (2) the ratification of the Japanese Treaty. I took a very active part on both of these measures.

I was the only Republican in Committee to vote for the proposal to take tax collectors out of politics and was outnumbered 5 to 1. But that did not discourage me because the senior statesman of the Republican Party, Herbert Hoover, had actually set the lead for the position I took. I fought for the plan on the floor of the Senate and made a speech which some reports credited with winning as many as ten votes to my side and being the difference between victory and defeat for the plan. When the final vote was taken the plan passed 53 to 27. I was, of course, pleased with that victory—but what pleased me even more was the fact that the Republicans voted 23 to 19 for the plan. I was able to get 22 other Republicans on my side while those five Republicans in Committee who opposed my position were able to get only 14 other Republicans to join them.

On the Japanese Treaty, I joined with Senator William F. Jenner of Indiana in offering specific reservations to the Treaty. In substance the reservations proposed to prevent the Treaty from any way surrendering any of the sovereignty of our country. Apparently the Jenner-Smith team surprised many members of the Senate and many members of the press because Senator Jenner and I have not always been eye-to-eye on all matters. As a matter of fact, Senator Jenner once made a verbal attack on me in the Senate by inserting in the appendix of the Congressional Record a derogatory letter about me.

But something as serious as the Japanese Treaty is too important to permit personal attacks to prejudice one. And I understandly overrode Senator Jenner's past attitude toward me. He and I serve on the Committee on Rules and Administration and other members have been surprised at the degree and frequency with which we have agreed on matters before that Committee.

We lost on all of our Reservations. At the outset, it looked as though we would get only a handful of votes for reservations. But to the surprise of everyone we got a substantial number of votes for all of our Reservations. And a majority of Republicans voted for our Reservations.

Even if we did lose, the opposition admitted that our Reservations served a very useful purpose in that they forced more debate and legislative testing of the Japanese Treaty than would otherwise have been possible. That is one of the reasons that I joined Senator Jenner on the Reservations. I not only wanted to make a speech and present challenge to our foreign policy on the Far East, but also I have felt very deeply that the treaty has a serious obligation in the ratification or rejection of treaties and that for a long time now there has been a great need to stop this automatic rubber-stamping of treaties made by the Executive Department without sufficient consultation with the Congress.

Senator Jenner stated that he had many Republican Senators express their desire to join him in sponsorship of the Reservations but that he had decided that he wanted only me to be the co-sponsor because my name would take away the isolationist sting that might otherwise have been attached to the Reservations.

It was quite pleasant getting back to the Republican State Convention at Bangor this past week and seeing so many of my friends that I have missed seeing for several months. The open houses of the Convention are really fine occasions as they offer an opportunity of seeing so many friends than you could possibly see otherwise.

Now that the delegates to the National Convention have been selected, I suppose that campaign activities of the Taft and Eisenhower forces in the State will somewhat subside and that greater attention will be focused on the campaigns within the State. I would expect that the U. S. Senatorial campaign would begin to show more signs of real activity and real campaigning in contrast to the comparative quiet that marked the period prior to the State Convention.

I have been asked many times by my friends and supporters about whom I think they should vote for and about whom I am for. Several of my friends have pressed me to support specific candidates—and perhaps the most frequent argument used in this pressure is that certain candidates have been unfriendly to me and have supported my opponents. But I am not interested in political revenge. And if there are such candidates my friends know well enough without my having to tell them—and I have emphasized to my friends to judge the candidates on the basis of their own records and without any reference to their relation to me. I think that my friends know my record well enough and I have stated my position on issues clearly enough for them to draw their own conclusions as to what degree the views and record of any candidate coincide more

MAINE'S PRINCESS LEAVES FOR WASHINGTON FESTIVAL
Bet, brunette Joan Carol Johnson of Bangor left Maine on Tuesday to attend the five day Cherry Blossom Festival being held at the nation's capital, April 2-6. At Washington, D. C., she will compete with girls from other states for the honor of being selected National Cherry Blossom Queen for 1952.

The State of Maine Society in Washington has arranged a full five day schedule for Miss Johnson starting with official greetings from Maine's Senator Margaret Chase Smith and Representative Charles P. Nelson, and a reception honoring visiting Princess Juliana of the Netherlands. The festival committee has scheduled a series of dinners and tours for the princess during the festival.

Miss Johnson was named Maine's Cherry Blossom Princess in a state-wide contest conducted by the Maine Broadcasting System in February. She is a resident of Bangor and is employed as a vocal instructor in the Skowhegan public schools. Her mother is accompanying her on the Washington trip.

State will be seen by an estimated million persons along the route of March. The float has been built by James M. Acheson, president of a Maine hotel chain and has been contributed under the sponsorship of the Belgrade Hotel.

One of the State's outstanding high school bands, Edward Little of Auburn, will march in the parade to lead color, music and Maine to the festival.

The LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Now, today, with the ink just about dry on your last check in favor of the Tax-man—paying up the last installment on 1951—is a good time to rub some salt in the wounds of the nice people of the land as they forget the late unpleasantness. Something has gotta be done or March 15, 1953—one year hence—will be even more painful. And in between times the County and the State and your own Town will be looking you over with a sharp eye to see if there is a nickel or dime's worth of excess fat on your bones that could be whittled off.

What is next, is not easy to do. But one thing—sure as the little apples are in the bottom of the barrel—there are more proposed tax novelties in the offing, like a service charge for the use of a sewage system, which is yours in the first place—you paid for it. Our need today is a citizens committee. It could call upon the Mayor, the County officers, the Governor—lay down the law. Then, in due course, if nothing happened, and expenses continued to soar, take a leaf from the book of the old "Vigilantes"—let the committee chairman carry a rope in the crook of his elbow.

And after a little local practice, the committee could with rope still in hand, take off for that loose and free spending Capitol of this, our once thrifty land, or we will water up a gone-gosling.

Yours with the low down, JO SERRA

He jokes and laughs and slaps his knee And drives in a way to endanger. This "square," I'm sure you'll all agree, Would make a wonderful stranger.

We always have time enough, if we but use it right. —Goethe

EASY DOES IT

DO YOUR CLEANING easily and in comfort if you want to avoid accidents as well as muscle strain.

A dress that's comfortable, or a pair of slacks and shirt are a good outfit for cleaning, especially when you can move freely, with shoulder room. Long housecoats are out, for you might slip on them.

Take time out to get a stepladder when you're cleaning windows or shelves. Instead of using a rickety chair. When you're lifting or carrying, plant the feet firmly on the floor and bend the knees to do any picking up. Straighten the knees gradually to prevent lifting entirely by the back.

When you're removing magazines, papers and other items, do carry a basket so that one trip will save several. Use a basket, also, for cleaning supplies.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Peaches in Orange Sauce (Serves 6-8)

1 No. 2 1/2 can peach halves or slices
1 cup brown sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
Dash of salt
1/4 cup orange juice
3 whole cloves
3 whole allspice
Drain peaches, reserve juice and measure 1/4 cup. Combine sugar, cornstarch and salt in saucepan. Stir in 1/4 cup peach juice and orange juice. Add spices. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add peaches and simmer 5 minutes. Cool. Serve with plain or whipped cream, or use as a pudding sauce.

Small wagons are ideal for carrying out many items such as several waste baskets. In this way you can make one wagon trip to save several others, and also avoid lifting.

Plan your work so that something can be started, while you do other tasks. For example, let the shower curtain soak in the bath tub while you clean the medicine chest, bowl or change towels.

Another example for cleaning routine is to strip your bed and let it air while you wash woodwork, dust blinds or pick up the room and closet. After this is done, fluff the bed.

TODAY'S meditation

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Thursday, April 3

Walk in love, as Christ has also loved us, and hath given himself for us. (Ephesians 5:2.) Read I Corinthians, Chapter 13.

SINCE God is love, Christ came to reveal God to us as the God of love. The follower of Christ increases his resemblance to God and to the Christ of God as he increases his capacity for living while walking in love. It is said, "The greatest thing a man can do for his heavenly Father is to be kind to one of His other sons." In that way we walk and live in love.

This world is begging for torrents of love. It is in need of Christians who do not have so many creeds, but who know how to love greatly; of Christians who do not take so much pride in their perfect organizations, but who are filled with the eternal love of God. "To love abundantly," says Henry Drummond, "is to live abundantly." To deny love is to deny the spirit of Christ. Paul insists: "Walk in love."

Prayer

O God of love, we pray Thy forgiveness because we have not loved so much as Thou wouldst have us love. We pray that Thou wilt fill us with Thy Holy Spirit and awaken within us an intense, abiding love for Thee. Help us to walk in love among our neighbors. We pray in our Saviour's name, Amen.

Thought For The Day

Do others behold in me a Christ-like love?

—Francisco E. Estrella (Mexico)

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Arlington, Wash., Times: "The county treasurer's office . . . is crowded with citizens checking up and paying taxes. By a study of his statement the taxpayer can figure his exact contribution toward the administration of his city, which provides police protection, fire protection, upkeep of his streets, lighting, library, and various services . . . On the other hand the im-to study it.

You are cordially invited to attend the services of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, or the service of the branch church or society, near you.

Golden Text: "In the multitude of dreams and many words there are divers vanities, but few there that are getting." (Ecc. 5:7) ense sums the Federal government whilst away from him are meekly surrendered. . . . If the taxpayer raised half the howl . . . over the Federal extractions that he raises over the county pittance, the din might be heard, and have a wholesome effect in Washington."

The wise motorist plans to start in plenty of time. Many accidents are caused by haste by not allowing enough time for the trip and by trying to save time on the road. Start early; take your time; live longer!

Many days are especially dangerous days for pedestrians. There is a tendency to bow one's head to the driving rain or to hold an umbrella in such a way that it obscures vision. Crossing streets in this manner is eventual suicide.

MAINE 4-H LEADERS TO ATTEND TRACTOR CLINIC

Maine 4-H club leaders will attend the sixth annual State 4-H Club Tractor Maintenance Clinic at the University of Maine Wednesday through Saturday, April 2 to 5.

Originally scheduled for February 29 to 25, the clinic was postponed because of the blizzard.

Kenneth C. Lovejoy, state 4-H club leader, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Maine, has announced that Mardie R. Warner, Extension Agricultural engineer, will serve as director of the school.

The American Oil Company is sponsoring the clinic. Howard Todd, of the company's Baltimore, Maryland, office, will represent the sponsor. Dr. Garland B. Russell, assistant professor of education and director of teacher training at the University of Maine, will be a featured speaker.

Other instructors will be Frank W. Pelker, Nathan H. Rich, R. Bruce Hopkins, Harold C. Swift, Howard D. Bartlett, and Fred W. Roth. These men are all agricultural engineers with the College of Agriculture or Agricultural Experiment Station at the U. of M.

Lovejoy pointed out that each 4-H tractor club in Maine is eligible to send a leader or assistant leader to the clinic. If neither is able to attend, the club should be represented by some other man who will teach the 4-H members what he learns at the clinic.

Morning and afternoon sessions will begin with lectures on the fuel system, ignition, lubrication and cooling system. They'll be followed by laboratory practice on different makes of tractors. The last lab class will be a trouble shooting contest to determine which group can locate and remedy various tractor troubles. Prizes will be awarded.
